For most people, H. pylori infection does not cause any problems or symptoms, but in some people, H. pylori infection can cause digestive problems, including ulcers and, much less commonly, stomach cancer. What Are Symptoms of H. pylori? Most people with H. pylori infection have no symptoms. In people who have ulcers due to H. pylori, the first symptoms of ulcers include: From that point on my family and I met with oncologists and other specialists, took a myriad of tests and looked to the internet to learn about my new life or the short term life I was learning about. My family - what can I say about them. They took over every time we saw the doctor or had to take a test - everything. I listened to everyone but I didn't hear a word they were saying. I was dying. My only thought was when and how long. I began therapy which was the best thing I ever could have done not only for me but for my family. We were all suffering. I was leaving the loves of my life and they were losing their wife, mother and grandmother. The one who kept it all together. When the coils on "Relay 3" and "Relay 4" are pulled high (electricity is flowing through them), then the motor will stop spinning (see "Image 4"). Think of the red and black wire closest to one edge of the board as one set. Think of the farther red and black wire as another set. In the image below, I twisted the two wires of each set together. When the H-bridge is triggered by the SPDT relay, either one set or the other set, at any given time, will have power flowing through it. So, if we were to attach an LED in series with a 220 ohm resistor to each set, when we plug in a battery and flick the switch, either one LED will light up or the other will light up (see images below). The three naturally occurring isotopes of hydrogen have their own names: protium (0 neutrons), deuterium (1 neutron), and tritium (2 neutrons). In fact, hydrogen is the only element with names for its common isotopes. Protium is the most abundant hydrogen isotope, accounting for about 75 percent of the mass of the universe. ^4H to ^7H are extremely unstable isotopes that have been made in the lab but are not seen in nature.
